

Sylva has been painting for 20 years. Always big, always expressive.

After high school and with 2 exhibitions under her belt, she began her fine art education at Launceston University, before moving back to the Gold Coast and finishing her degree at the Queensland College of Art.

After finishing at the QCA, Sylva moved to New York where she was accepted under a work/study scholarship at the Art Students League of New York. Cutting her teeth in the same place that Jackson Pollock, Cy Twombly, Robert Rauschenberg and Georgia O'Keefe did before her.

At the art students league she exhibited frequently and was included in many faculty selected exhibitions. Her instructors included renowned artists such as Larry Poons, Knox Martin and Ronnie Landfield.

In New York Sylva exhibited in many group shows, solo pop up spaces, open studios, and painted a notable mural on the lower east side of Manhattan.

Sylva lived in New York for 8 years, Las Vegas for another year and has been back in Australia since 2015.

Sylva has not shown her work publically since leaving New York 5 years ago.

She has not stopped painting in that time, her new show 'Triggered' is her first show since 2001
